Backcountry Tasting Route

Our gastronomic escapade is a savvy blend of the best local products and magnificent landscapes between Saint-Jean-Pied-de-Port and the Aldudes Valley.

At Ossès, you visit Arnabar, foie gras specialists who raise their free-range ducks with a panoramic view of the Basque mountains. On the programme: a tasting session including foie gras and homemade rillettes!

Then it's on to Saint-Etienne-de-Baïgorry where the mountains surrounding the village are major assets for local wine: the famous Irouléguy wine available in white, rosé and red. Several owners await you for a private tasting in their wine cellars.

Drive in the direction of Saint-Jean-Pied-de-Port, a stage on the Camino de Santiago pilgrimage route, where you rendezvous with renowned ewe cheese producers. AOC Ossaulraty, Brebis Basque... listen to their suggestions and experience to choose the cheese that best suits your taste.

Further down the road, you enter the picturesque Aldudes Valley. A winding road leads you through the valley's villages, exploring a region that exudes calm and authenticity.

The next stop is Michel Goïcoéchéa's aquaculture farm to learn more about Banka Trout and understand the importance of trout farming in the Basque Country.

Just as you're leaving the village of Aldudes, you make one last stop to sample authentic Bayonne Ham made by renowned local craftsman Pierre Oteiza. He invites you on a one-hour learning experience in the mountains to meet the famous black footed pigs.

On your way back, a short detour via Socoa allows you to sample Egiategia wine, made right in the Saint-Jean-de-Luz bay.

A day south of the border

Basque Country is a stone's throw from Spain! It's the perfect chance for you to explore Hispanic influences during a one-day excursion on the Spanish coast.

Fontarrabie, one of the Basque Country's rare fortified towns, boasts an extensive cultural and artistic heritage. Admire the Marine district and the old town with its typical, colourful architecture. For happy hour, take a seat in one of the many tapas bars for a glass of Rioja and be sure to stop by Hendaye port where a boat can cross the bay in just 10 minutes!

After stopping in the old town of Pasaia, continue on until you reach San Sebastián, European Capital of Culture 2016. Built around a white sand bay between Mounts Urgull and Igeldo, San Sebastián is famous for having the most Michelin starred restaurants per square metre. The fishing port, the new aristocratic neighbourhood, its modern districts and many museums make this city one of the most attractive on the Cantabria coast.

Continue exploring as you head for the lovely fishing village of Getaria. On the road through town, you can admire the medieval houses as well as its port right on up to the San Antón hermitage.

Advance along the coast to Mutriku, a village founded in the early 13th century featuring narrow cobblestone streets dotted with countless palaces, towers and houses decked with coats of arms.

Your escapade continues along the Bay of Biscay to Lekeitio, home to impressive gothic gems as well as a charming fishing district. Its endless beaches are just across from San Nicolás Island which you can reach by foot at low tide.

Next up, Mundaka and its famous surfing spot. This coastal village located in the Urdaibai biosphere reserve offers a magnificent stroll through its fishing port.

Last but not least, your Basque Country culture would not be complete without a visit to the Guggenheim Museum in Bilbao, a modern and contemporary art museum built by architect Frank Gehry.

Golf

Today, the Basque Coast and the Landes region have become “Golf Country”

It all began back in 1887 when a few British residents, members of the British Club, wanted to play their favourite sport during their summer holidays in Biarritz, and decided to build a golf course on the Plateau du Phare.

One year later, Princess Frederika of Hanover inaugurated the Golf du Phare with its 18-hole course as well as a 9-hole women's course.

Today, the Basque Coast and the Landes region have become “Golf Country” and offer a total of over ten courses including Chiberta, Arcangues, Chantaco, La Nivelle, Moliets and Hossegor, as well as the Ilbarritz training centre, unique in Europe. Plus, since 1988, the cities of Biarritz and Augusta (Georgia, USA) have been twin cities, leading to a number of sports and tourist exchanges.

Leading up to the 2018 Ryder Cup at Golf National near Versailles, which is already being hailed as one of the great moments in the history of golf, and as part of a campaign to promote golf in France, the French government has recognized the Biarritz region as a “Golf Destination”.

Many competitions are held in the area every year such as the French Lacoste Ladies Open, the Biarritz Cup - one of the biggest French amateur events - and the Grand Prix of Chiberta.

The Hotel du Palais is also “golf friendly”! Every Sunday morning, an instructor offers lessons on the Hotel du Palais pitch & putt.

And that's not all! Every year, on October, the Hotel du Palais is organizing its very own competition: the “International Golf Trophy” sponsored by Grégory Bourdy, one of the top French players, in partnership with Guerlain, partner of the Imperial Spa, and with the support of the Biarritz golf courses Le Phare and Arcangues.
